

EDITORIAL POLICY

The views expressed in these articles by the guest writers are not necessarily those of the editorial staff or Board of Directors. Our policy is to make The Gathering Call a magazine of religious research which will serve as a "melting pot" of ideas. We feel that by obtaining a cross-section of the views of many, we may strengthen our drive toward truth, and explore facets of truth which could be discovered in no other way. It is recognized that some of the materials presented will be most disturbing to those who have been protected from a wide variety of considerations. But we believe that there is nothing to fear from truth; that the truth will stand on its own. We also hold that God intended that men should use their minds. The response of the readers to the contents found herein is thusly a matter between they and their Maker.