

INTER-OFFICE

To: All recipients of Jim Lea's Index

Date: March 24, 1972

Department:

Subject: Letting others duplicate or
Have a Copy of This Index

From: Editorial Department

This index was written to make Ambassador College's many years of valuable literature accessible to those on campus who need to have access to certain subject material heretofore inaccessible to them (because no comprehensive index was available).

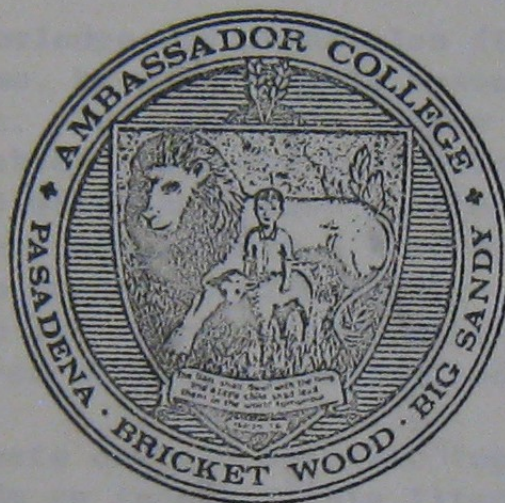

Copies of this index are available only for department heads, people on campus who can use it to facilitate their jobs, etc.

Please do not duplicate this index for anyone else unless you check with Editorial. A few extra copies are available from Editorial for others who might need a copy of this index.

If you have any questions about this index or need any assistance in using it, see Jim Lea in PT Editorial (call 5585 or 5314).

If you should discover any errors in this index, Jim would greatly appreciate it if you'd jot them down and let him know of them so they can be corrected.

INDEX OF AMBASSADOR COLLEGE LITERATURE

by Jim E. Lea

(Index includes all PT's, TW's, GN's from Jan. '61 to April '72; it also includes all books & booklets, reprint articles, correspondence courses — old & new versions; Ambassador College's historically and religiously oriented theses, dissertations, & research papers; and certain useful articles prior to 1961.)

NOTE — Please do not duplicate this index without permission from Editorial Department.

March 1972
Pasadena, California

WHY THIS INDEX WAS WRITTEN

When I came into contact with Ambassador College, what impressed me most was how it disseminated basic, yet vital, knowledge in so many fields of learning. Ambassador College writers made truths long hidden from the eyes of the world come alive. Their writing immediately aroused interest and was easy to comprehend.

At Ambassador College, students are told how Ambassador College is a gold mine of true knowledge, of right standards, and of truth about God and His way of life. Every student is encouraged to get busy and mine this precious gold.

Almost all the knowledge and principles (the gold) taught at the college have, at one time, been thoroughly researched and published in a PT, GN, CC, booklet, etc. Yet there are only a few, small, incomplete indexes generally available to aid one in finding specific topics (the individual gold nuggets) which have been written about in the college's valuable literature. Many people have a huge stack of Ambassador College literature; yet they are unable to effectively use it because they lack a comprehensive index to it--which is just like owning a deed to a gold mine and having no diagram showing where to find the gold.

To help myself locate certain specific topics discussed in the college's literature, I made an index of this literature on about 60 note cards; yet I regretted that many priceless articles revealing the logical, simple, "plain" truth on so many vitally important subjects--written after many hours of prayer, research, and even fasting--were forgotten or the whereabouts of these articles was unknown. People often would remember a specific old article they needed to refer to, but usually they couldn't locate it without spending many frustrating minutes or hours thumbing through old PTs, GNs, or CCs, since they didn't have a comprehensive index available.

A year ago, I took my hand-written card index to the Ambassador College Press, where, in actual use, the index proved to be of value. At the urging of several people, I typed and edited this index so others would be able to use it. My purpose was to make Ambassador College's literature easy to locate for those on campus who could use it to facilitate their jobs and to save people who needed to use this literature priceless hours of time.

I'm extremely indebted to and wish to thank Messrs. Earl Sixt, Richard Sedliacik, Graham Davies, Phil Robison, and Joe Bohannon, as well as Judy Mills and Betty Lau, for the help and counsel they gave me on this index.

Jim E. Lea
March 1972

READ THIS! -- BEFORE USING THIS INDEX

Abbreviations Used

TW=Tomorrow's World	PT=Plain Truth	GN=Good News
BK=booklet or book	WT=World Tomorrow	AC=Ambassador College
O.T.=Old Testament	N.T.=New Testament	CC=Correspondence Course
HWA=Mr. Herbert Armstrong
Old CC--Refers to the discontinued CC series (lessons 1-58)
New CC--Refers to the new CC series (lessons 1-24)

* --Means the reprint article, reprint letter, or the booklet is out of print and unobtainable (e.g., 123*; Healing--BK*). Please check with Editorial before using material from one of these out-of-print articles. This literature was discontinued for a purpose and should not be reused without approval from Editorial.

HOW TO LOCATE MATERIAL ON A GIVEN SUBJECT

This index is only a SUBJECT index, not a title or author index. Titles are used only if they happen to match the subject of the material.

Most reprint articles or letters have an identifying 3-digit number, such as 001, 555, 999. The others use letters of the alphabet, e.g., AGR, MR-GAL, GDN.

When you look up a certain subject, you'll find most of the material available on that subject following the name of the subject. Use the cross references if you're unable to locate the material you want under a certain subject heading. Below is how to interpret the different types of sources used:

PT 1/66 p6--Subject appears in Jan. '66 PT starting on page 6.

TW 1/66 p6--Subject appears in Jan. '66 TW starting on page 6.

GN 1/66 p6--Subject appears in Jan. '66 GN starting on page 6.

Old CC8 p6--Subject appears in Lesson 8 of the old CC series starting on page 6.

New CC8 p6--Subject appears in Lesson 8 of the new CC series starting on page 6.

123 (numbers go from 001-999)--Subject appears in a reprint article or letter designated by the number 123.

AGR --Subject appears in a reprint letter designated by the letters AGR.

If a reference to a source doesn't include a page number (e.g., 123, or AGR, or Marriage Obsolete--BK, or Old CC2), skim through the source until you find the material you're looking for. Most sources will have a page number (e.g., Old CC8 p6, PT 6/71 p33).

"The Bible Story" (now called "The Story of Man") is not covered in this index.

INDEX OF AMBASSADOR COLLEGE LITERATURE (PART II)

by Jim E. Lea

(Index includes all PTs from March 1972 to Jan. 1974, all GNs from May 1972 to Jan. 1974, the April TW, New CCs 10-12, and all new booklets and reprints issued since March 1972. Check my older, 128-page index for all cross references and arrangement of topics & subtopics.)

NOTE — Please do not duplicate this index without permission from Editorial Department.

January 8, 1974

Pasadena, California