Sermon Outlines Wanted

We have several sermon outlines on file. We'd like to have more. Worldwide, at least 500 sermons are given each week, at least 30,000 each year. We'd love to have as much as 1 percent, so we have more topics to choose from and more ideas to combine.

Of course, some sermons are tailored to help specific congregations. But most would be of value to God's people worldwide. Some sermons, though effective, don't come across well in outline form. Some, due to a personal approach, couldn't be delivered by anyone else. But many thousands of sermon outlines are of value, and their value can be multiplied if they are submitted and shared.

Some of you may be too humble to suggest that one of your sermons has been effective and helpful. So we suggest that you encourage another minister to submit an outline. Pastors can encourage assistants; local church elders can encourage full-time men. Pick out the most effective sermon a man has given in the past year. Name the topic and the approach he used. Be specific about which sermon you think would be of value to other congregations. If you remember the topic and approach several months later, it's probably a good sermon.

A few of you may not want your most effective sermons to be printed because you might not be able to use them again in another area. That's a poor reason. It doesn't make sense to hold back something that might benefit thousands just so you might get the credit for delivering it to a few hundred. Moreover, people can benefit from hearing an effective sermon again, just as they can by using the correspondence course again, especially if a few years have gone by.

We'd like to get sermon outlines on a variety of topics — doctrinal studies, practical Christian living, basic concepts and advanced ideas — from developed nations and developing nations — from evangelists, pastors, elders and trainees.

We aren't asking for fancy presentations. The outlines don't have to be long, nor typed, nor outlined the way we have published past outlines. Photocopies of handwritten notes are OK. We aren't worried about typographical quality — what we want is quantity and helpfulness.
